OHIO SITUATION BAD

Parts of North Central Section Get RainColumbus, O., July 18.—(AP)—A drought menace shot Ohio's crop losses higher today despite a break in the heat wave.Clear skies and cooler breezes gave relief to city dwellers, but not the farmers—especially those in the 34 southwestern counties, comprising the drought area, which has not had a material rainfall in more than six weeks.Crop losses, expected to reach at least $16,000,000, mounted daily in this area. Throughout the rest of the state helpful rains have fallen.
More would be welcomed, although a good crop is anticipated.Many farmers forked hay from their reserve supplies for the winter and fed it to their dairy cows.
Burned out pasture lands were blamed in many sections for milk price hikes.A generally good wheat crop assured farmers a profitable price."Clinton county probably is about the center," he said. "It's terribly dry there and crops and livestock are suffering terribly. The situation is bad there," said Dr. H. C.
Ransower, director of O. S. U. Agricultural Extension.He said farm officials of western cattle states had revived the question of transporting the stock east to the corn states, but warned it would be useless to ship any cattle.

the movement's founder, that he would not sit with the board of directors until the ouster of Gommember and national vice presi-

from the board early today:"No action will be taken by Dr.
Townsend or the National board to

BISHOP DISAPPROVES FATHER COUGHLIN'S SPEECH

New York, July 18.—(AP)—Bishop Michael Gallagher of Detroit, today disapproved Father Charles E.
Coughlin's "method of expressing himself" with reference to President Roosevelt.Addressing the Townsend convention in Cleveland, Thursday night, Father Coughlin referred to the President as "a liar and betrayer."Departing today on the steamship Rex to visit Vatican City, the bishop, who is Father Coughlin's ecclesiastical superior, said in an interview in regard to FatherCoughlin's remarks about the President:"He was called hurriedly to speak before the convention and he probably got a little excited in his impromptu remarks.""Any statement that I have re-

She Reveals After Running AwayJudge at St. Clairsville, O., Terms Case "Pitiable" After He Hears Story of How Mother Knocked Her Unconscious with Skillet
and Put Her to Work in FieldsSt. Clairsville, O., July 18.— (AP)—A pretty 13-year-old girl, shorn of the permanent wave
she got in a desire "to look like other girls," sat silently in the Belmont county jail detention room today while authorities went out to arrest her parents.The girl, Katherine Kovas, in an hour-long recital before Probate Judge Harry Albright yesterday, accused her mother of knocking her unconscious with a skillet and shaving her head to make her look "like a monkey."Judge Albright, terming the case "pitiable," immediately issued warrants charging theparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Ko-vas, of Martins Ferry, with contributing to the dependency of a child.Katherine told the court she revolted last week against a life of working as farmer, coal carrier, carpenter and dishwasher while her seven brothers and sisters were "fed on the fat of the land."She said she stole $30 from a hoard of $300 in the family trunk on their 105-acre farm ten miles north of here and bought a $1.50 permanent wave and a pair of slacks."I wanted to get a permanent," she said, "so I could look like other girls."

Her mother, catching her on the street, took her home, she continued, hit her on the head with a skillet, and while she lay unconscious, shaved off the permanent. She said she lay unconscious all night in the blood from the scalp wound."Mother told me she wanted me to look like a monkey," she told Judge Albright, "so I would be ashamed to run around and be with people."Her mother then turned her out on the farm, she said, to haul hay shocks and "be the laughing stock of the district."She left home again Monday, she said, and hid under houses in Martins Ferry for three nights and days.

Rebukes Coughlin

Samuel Harden Church

Protesting against the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin's reference to President Roosevelt as a "liar" and a "double-crosser" in his speech before the Townsend convention in Cleveland, Samuel Harden Church, above, president of Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, telegraphed a caustic rebuke to the Detroit radio priest. The telegram said: "I indignantly protest against your calling President Roosevelt a liar and insist that the foul-mouthed and malignant language used by you is unworthy of the privileges of Amerifessed kidnaper's declaration that former Police Chief Tom Brown was figured by gangsters for a $25,000

"cut" in proceeds of the $100,000
William Hamm kidnaping was met with silence by the accused man today, as Safety Commissioner Gus Barfuss announced he would follow Brown's suspension from the department with a full investigation."I have nothing to say," was Brown's reply to the accusation, made yesterday by Byron Bolton, government witness in the trial of John P. Peifer, former St. Paul night club owner charged with participating in the kidnaping.Half an hour after Bolton's witness stand declaration, Barfuss suspended Brown from his post as head of the police automobile theft department "without prejudice" pending further inquiry.U. S. District Attorney George P.
Sullivan said, "we are not doing anything about it. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is the investigating department. Our job is one of prosecution."Bolton testified that when the kidnapers divided the ransom money on July 25, 1933, at a hide-out in Long Lake, Ill., the bank notes already had been exchanged for "good money," at least a week before, at Reno, Nev.Mayor Mark Gehan said Brown was the center of an investigation
two months ago after the mayor received reports associating the police officer's name with persons figuring in the kidnaping. Mayor Gehan said there was insufficient evidence to warrant any action.CITY IN COLOMBIA

homeless, were awaited here today.Communications failed shortly after the shock and had not ous shocks had been felt at Pasto, 40 miles from Tuquerres, causing heavy damage. It was feared there had been loss of many lives.Pasto is the capital of the department of arino, located in the Andes tablelands. Tuquerres, with 8,500 persons, lies

BECAUSE, HE SAID, HE SINNEDErie, Pa., July 18.—(AP)—The wife and two children of a 40-year-old Sunday school superintendent were beaten to death with a hammer while they lay in their beds today and police said he admitted attacking them.Prosecuting Attorney Mortimer E. Graham and Police Chief George J. Christoph said Samuel C. Weed, the religious worker, told them:
"Some time ago I committed a sin against God. I didn't want my wife and children to live because they were white and clean."

"I had committed a scarlet sin."

The officers said Weed refused to discuss what he called a "scarlet sin."Earlier Patrolman Carl Malinowski said Weed told of beating his family and asked:
"Have they gone to heaven yet? That's where I wanted to send them."Weed's wife, Ireen, 32, and his son, David, 5, died immediately.
Another son, Charles, 3, lived only a few hours.Graham and Christoph said Weed's statement told of a long prayer meeting at the Weed home last night.They said Weed told them he awakened this morning and decided "to send his family and himself to heaven."Weed was arrested after Glenn Hall reported Weed jumped in front of his automobile. He received severe cuts and bruises.Neighbors said Weed was superintendent of the Sunday school at a Nazarene Mission church in suburban Wesleyville.

He was a clerk in an electrical supply company factory.

Edward VIII Really Likes
to Be Among SubjectsLondon, July 18.—(AP)—Scotland Yard officials, torn between a desire to please their sovereign and their duty to protect him, decided today King Edward would have to be induced to change his habits.An authoritative source, reflecting public anxiety over the attempt on the King Thursday, indicated pressure would be brought to induce Edward to give up his strolls on the streets.Instead of being able to mingle with his subjects, Edward probably will be forced to travel about London in an automobile as his father, the late King George, always did.George Andrew McMahon, who disturbed the empire with his attempt against the King on Constitution Hill, was questioned again following medical attention.It was understood he stuck to his story that he never intended to shoot the King but that he threw his revolver at the mounted monarch as "a protest."With King Edward's coronation less than a year away, authorities determined to remove all danger of future incidents similar to that on Constitution Hill.The King, however, was known to dislike being hedged in by guards, preferring to move informally among his subjects as he did when he was Prince of Wales.The chief constable of Bucking-

POLITICS at Random

Columbus, O., July 18.—(P)—Ohio Republicans, their campaign organization finally completed, were ready today for the pre-November wars.

Charles R. Frederickson, Coshocton industrialist who was second choice for president of the "Favorite Son" delegates to the Cleveland convention, will direct the presidential and state campaigns as executive vice chairman of a campaign committee of eight.

The State Central and Executive committees created this new position for him yesterday, giving him virtually dictatorial powers in campaign activities. His job will be to coordinate the activities of other vice chairmen in charge of various candidates.

Appointment of the committee and creation of the position was part of a harmony program approved by all the national, state and congressional candidates.

Frederickson was understood to be the personal choice of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, the presidential candidate, because of close relations between Landon and Frederickson's father in Kansas.

R. C. Snyder, Sandusky and Norwalk publisher, was appointed vice chairman in charge of the candidacies of Landon and Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, the vice presidential candidate.

Dale Dunifon of Van Wert, first assistant attorney general, was made vice chairman in charge of the campaign of Atty. Gen. John W. Bricker, the candidate for governor.

State Republican Chairman Ed D. Schorr will be chairman of the campaign committee, but this position was understood to be a nominal one.

Louis H. Brush of Salem, president of the Brush-Moore Newspaper Inc., was made treasurer of the committee and Nolan Boggs of Toledo, secretary. Boggs is secretary of the State Central Executive committee also.

Topeka, Kas., July 18.—(P)—John R. McCarl, who for 15 years kept official tab on the federal government's outgoing dollars, pictured Gov. Alf M. Landon today as a "sanely progressive" presidential candidate deeply concerned "over our ever-increasing expenditures and our ever-mounting public debt."

The former comptroller general, who retired from office June 30 an outspoken foe of "extravagant spending," spent an hour and a half talking with the Republican nominee yesterday.

Asked if he would campaign for Landon, McCarl replied "that will depend upon developments and whether I think I can be of service."

"As president of the United States," McCarl said in his statement on Landon, "he will neither become a dictator nor view the plight of the people from such isolated and lofty eminence as to be tempted toward fantastic experiments rather than sound and practical measures."

"He impresses one as being sanely progressive, intent upon moving constantly forward, but always on a safe and sound basis—evolution, not revolution and rehabilitation before reform."

Governor Landon had a comparatively light schedule at the office today. Heading the list of expected visitors were Walter Van Kirk, Peace Association head, and Clark Elcheiderg of the League of Nations association.

Washington, July 18.—(P)—Secretary of State Hull, in a statement published today, said critics of the administration's reciprocal trade program "maliciously distorted" the facts.

The cabinet member, champion and director of the New Deal trade pact plan, denounced opponents as "antiagricultural wrecking crew which boasted of their leadership during the years prior to 1933 but pushed the farmer into bankruptcy and left him there."

The plan he defended involves an effort to lower tariffs and other barriers through reciprocal agreements with other nations; after a pact is signed with one country the concessions are extended to all others with which the United States has most-favored-nation treaties.

"The program is essentially economic, created by national necessity, and it has been so treated by more than two-thirds of the American press and by outstanding statesmen, regardless of party," he asserted.

Describing the strategy of the critics as an effort "to discredit the present national program in the eyes of the farmer," Hull asserted:

"They find themselves confronted with the fact that in 1935 farmers were getting 81 cents a bushel for wheat as compared with 35 cents in 1932; 61 cents a bushel for corn, as against 21 cents in 1932; 9 cents a pound for hogs as against 3 cents in 1932."

Farm income as a whole, he said, was two-thirds greater last year than three years before.

Hull said the trade agreements had not in any way reduced the tariffs, in effect prior to 1935, on wheat, corn, rye, oats, butter and canned beef and asserted that exports of farm products declined in value from $1,692,900,000 in 1929 to $662,000,000 in 1932.

Ashland, Va., July 18.—(P)—Carter Glass, Virginia's 78 year old Democratic senator, brought the Patrick Henry Bicentennial celebration to a climax with a declaration that the present administration is a "government of privilege and discrimination."

Speaking last night at a gathering on the campus of Randolph Macon college, Senator Glass said the present government is such a government as Henry denounced in Virginia's House of Burgesses.

Henry, he said, held it to be "improper to take money of taxpayers of Virginia and appropriate it to pay off mortgages that had been made by thriftless and unwise individuals."

"That is just what we are doing in this country today," Glass said, "whether it be due to the mismanagement of bank managers, insurance company managers, or the mismanagers of businesses or railroads. The government's nose is in all sorts of business today."

The president, he said, "made the mistake of taking all the power that Congress was willing to give him. It is the Congress that should be blamed for abjectly surrendering its own constitutional functions and delegating them to the president of the United States and to various minor executive officials."

Asking if Henry could be "bamboozled by talk of federal aid to states," Senator Glass answered his own question by saying that any money the government has comes from the pockets of taxpayers and that "all this government aid talk is folly."

Fred MacMurray and Carole Lombard skip through a tale of romance and comedy—laced with mystery—in "The Princess Comes Across," opening Sunday at the Roxy theatre. The co-stars of "Hands Across the Table" meet and fall in love aboard a trans-Atlantic liner. Fred sings his first recorded song in the picture.

Born to fight—both of them! Things happen, and happen fast, when Polly Ann Young, headstrong heiress, dares two-fisted George O'Brien to tame her in "The Border Patrolman," the picture at the Fayette Saturday.

When Hugh Herbert, Charles Butterworth, Una Merkel and Walter Abel are in a cast, something really funny is to be expected. This amusing comedy is to be seen at the Fayette theatre Thursday and Friday.

SEWING CENTER HOURS CHANGED

DUE TO HEAT IN UPPER WORK ROOM

The hours have been changed at the sewing center on the third floor of the Sharp addition to the Y. M. C. A. building, so that the women will not find it necessary to work in the intense heat of the afternoons.

First of all the women put in so many hours daily, and this has made it possible to make the work hours from 6:00 a. m. until noon, instead of starting later and working into the afternoon.

The working conditions are expected to be much more comfortable under the new arrangement.

REBELLION IN MOROCCO NOW REPORTED TO HAVE SPREAD TO SPAIN WITH FIGHTING

BLIND RELIEF CHANGES MADE

All on Relief Must Appear for Examination July 22-23

Under the new Social Security act all persons on blind relief must make new application for relief, and undergo a new examination before they can receive further relief.

In Fayette county there is only one doctor classified as an eye specialist, and his health not permitting active practice at the present time, it has been necessary to bring an outside eye specialist into the county to do the work here.

County officials have arranged with Dr. Charles Miesse, of Chillicothe, to make the examinations, and he will be at the Probate Judge's office in this city July 22 and 23 at 8:30 a. m. where all applicants should appear for examination.

Here is an important phase of the examination that must not be overlooked by the applicants—they must be accompanied by two witnesses to verify their statements.

Within a short time the two local members of the Fayette county advisory committees under the Social Securities Act, which will act in an advisory capacity for blind relief and crippled children, will recommend five others, from which list two will be named to complete the committee with the two already selected—Judge S. A. Murry and Commissioner Henry W. Jones.

MERCURY SAME AS YEAR AGO

The mercury Friday and Friday night was identical to the temperature a year ago, the peak being 95 degrees during the afternoon at 66 the point during the night.

At eight o'clock Saturday the temperature was 75, and an overcast sky part of Saturday held the mercury down to more comfortable points.

A light sprinkle of rain fell in this city around nine o'clock Saturday morning.

AUTOS IN WRECK IN CLINTON AVE.

Armbrust and driven by Harry Taylor, figured in a wreck in Clinton Avenue at Oakland avenue intersection, Friday night, when the Wilson car, trailing the other, struck the Armbrust car as it was making a left turn into Oakland avenue. Both cars were damaged, but the occupants were not badly hurt.

HOG UNDER STRAW FOR FOUR MONTHS

HOG LIVES—WITHOUT FOOD AND WATER

Greenfield, July 18.—(Special)—Imprisoned under a strawpile for four months, a Chester White hog owned by John Bailey, of Upper Twin township, recently escaped from its prison and is now taking on poundage.

Trapped under the strawpile early in March, the hog was not seen until this week, when it appeared, little more than skin and bones, and weighing less than 40 pounds. Its mates had been marketed at over 200 pounds two weeks ago.

Investigating the owner found where the hog had escaped from the strawpile where for four months it had been held prisoner without food or water.

RAY CORY DIES SATURDAY MORNING

Ray Cory, 27, residing on the former C. P. West farm on the CCC highway seven miles from this city, died at his home at 11:45 Saturday forenoon. He had been in poor health for many months and sometime ago underwent an operation, but failed to regain his health.

He was born and raised at Jackson, Ohio, and is survived by his widow and two sons, Jerry, 5, and Dean 4. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cory also survive, as well as two sisters, Miss Wilda at home, and Mrs. Edward Barlow, of Jackson.

The body was brought to the Klever Funeral Home, prepared for burial, and Saturday afternoon sent to his home in Jackson, where funeral services will be held Monday, and interment made at Jackson.

Denials Are Issued, but Strict Censorship Is Clamped Down

By The Associated Press
Rebellion broke out in Spanish Morocco today and in London and Paris there were reports, quickly denied by Spanish authorities, that there was fighting in Spain itself.

In Madrid the government announced that it expected to crush the revolt shortly.

A strict censorship was invoked and president Manuel Azana took up residence in the national palace while the government took precautions against trouble.

Madrid was quiet but tense. Rumors, received at Hendaye, on the French border, that fighting had broken out at Cadiz, Seville, Burgos and Barcelona, but these reports also were not borne out by any official word.

The first outbreak was at Melilla, Morocco, where Colonel Eltitella and the entire garrison under his command revolted and forces were hurried to Melilla to take charge of the situation.

Some of the reports attributed the revolt to Monarchists while others said it was purely military in character.

Jails, emptied by the general amnesty decree freeing 25,000 leftists immediately after the elections, again are nearly filled. Some 2,000 Fascists, including Fascist leader Jose Antonio Primo De Rivera, son of the late dictator, occupy prison cells.

The government has announced that a special prison for political offenders, built to accommodate 4,000 persons, will be constructed at Burgos, half-way between Madrid and the French frontier.

AWAIT MACHINERY TO MAKE REPAIRS

Following complaints made regarding the condition of Highland Avenue for a few rods where it connects with West Court Street and Leesburg Avenue, City Manager G. H. Sollars stated Saturday that just as soon as a grader and roller could be obtained from the county that the bad section, which has never been more than temporarily repaired since frost damage last spring, will receive attention.

The city is handicapped on such work by reason of no equipment, and must depend upon the county or state for assistance in such cases.

The street has long been in very bad condition, and by reason of the damage to the street, must be entirely rebuilt for a short distance.

MAN AND WIFE DIE WHEN AUTO WRECKED

Alliance, O., July 18.—(P)—Chas. Strong, 30, and his wife, Edna, 28, were killed Friday when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a culvert on the Alliance-Marlboro road west of Bolton.

William Timmons, 26, driver of the car, was injured critically. His wife was less seriously hurt.

JOLLY MOODS FEATURE TOUR

The Sailing Roosevelts Lay Up for Week-end

Aboard Schooner, Liberty, Off Cape Sable, Nova Scotia, July 18.—(P)—After a bit of fishing off the southern tip of Nova Scotia, President Roosevelt set out today in the schooner, Sewanna, for Shelburne, about 35 miles up the east coast of the Canadian Peninsula.

The sailing Roosevelts, in jolly mood after a 36 hour run from Seal Harbor, Me., to Cape Sable, Nova Scotia, are expected to lay over at Shelburne for the week-end and then beat back up the coast toward Campobello Isle, New Brunswick. There the cruise will end July 28.

The president left the Sewanna late yesterday for the first time since his vacation trip began Tuesday morning.

Sitting at the wheel of a launch in white yachting hat, heavy sweater and black oil skin, he visited the Liberty and then left for some fishing. Unshaven, he laughed heartily and appeared surprised when informed none of the correspondents had become seasick on the long, semi-circular sail across the Bay of Fundy Thursday night.

His three sons, James, Franklin, Jr., and John, sailing companions, also came aboard the Liberty.

Slight Hopes Held For Rain In Corn Belt

The northern, eastern, and southern parts of the state have had some rain and are in better condition than the southwestern section.

RAINS EASE DROUGHT IN NORTH CENTRAL AREA

Chicago, July 18.—(P)—Wide-spread rains and cooling breezes brought promise of a definite end to the heat wave today in three states where withering temperatures in the past 15 days claimed more than 1,800 lives—nearly half of a nation wide total of 4,470.

The states were Minnesota, where 772 perished, Michigan, with 617 dead, and Wisconsin, with 469. In addition, forecaster J. R. Lloyd said that the worst probably was over in North Dakota, where the death rate was lower but the crop damage high.

No relief was in sight for South Dakota, Nebraska or Kansas, but elsewhere in the northwest and north central states, which sweltered for more than two weeks under temperatures topping the hundred mark, at least temporary relief had arrived or was in prospect, he said.

Showers over many sections of the corn belt started a flood of selling in the Chicago pits and corn futures plunged downward the four cents permitted in a single day's trading as the market opened. The break was the most severe in a drought inspired bull market which hoisted values 30 cents a bushel in a month. Other grains also were lower.

Cooler weather will remain in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin for the next three or four days at least, forecaster Lloyd predicted.

The heaviest rainfall in the drought area was recorded at Madison, Wis., with .34 of an inch.

SAYS MILK DEALERS ARE RACKETEERING

FOOD TAX REPEAL PETITIONS ARE HERE

WORK OF PRESENTING PETITIONS TO CITIZENS GOING FORWARD RAPIDLY

Fayette County's quota of petitions for the repeal of the tax on food, when bought for home consumption, as advocated by Governor Davey reached here on Friday evening and were at once distributed by Chairman Sheley to a number of citizens who immediately began the work of getting the signatures of those citizens who desire the tax repeal as advocated by the Governor.

Mr. Sheley announces that any one desiring a petition to circulate get in touch with him and he will provide the petition. He points out also that the time within which the large number of required signatures may be obtained is short and the work must be rushed in order that all citizens may have an opportunity to sign if they so desire. Mr. Sheley also reports that a surprisingly large number of people are signing the petitions. In fact, he says, there are practically no refusals.

ONE WAY ALLEY IS DESIGNATED

In order to eliminate congestion in the alley immediately east Memorial Hall, extending from Court to East streets, where many automobiles stop while obtaining ice cream from Trimmer's plant, the city officials have placed a one-way order on the street and posted signs accordingly.

The signs point traffic from Court street to East street so that machines will not be required to pass. Only short-time parking is allowed as a further aid to permitting orderly traffic through the alley, and yet permit purchasers to obtain what they desire at the ice cream plant.

The largest gift Bette Davis ever received from a fan was a feather mattress.

WHEAT YIELDS 37.5 BUSHELS

Believed to Be Top in the County This Year

So far as yet reported, J. C. Kibler, residing on the Leesburg road, two miles from this city, on what was formerly the Mart McCoy farm, had the best yield of wheat in Fayette county, a five acre field averaging 37½ bushels to the acre, machine measure, and was placed in storage in his granary.

While it was machine measure, the weighing device was tested carefully and ran 60 pounds to the bushel.

While the one field yielded 37½ bushels of extra choice wheat, the average for 26 acres on the farm was 31 bushels.

So far as known this is not only the best yield in Fayette county but the highest in this part of the state.

SHOWERS OCCUR HERE SATURDAY

A series of light showers fell in a large part of Fayette county Saturday about the noon hour and during the afternoon, in no instance, so far as known, were the showers sufficient to more than moisten the crust of the soil, but the rain and overcast sky did much toward livening up the crops by preventing a scorching sun sapping the strength from the crops in the drought area.

BULLET WOUND FATAL

Toledo, O., July 18.—(P)—Stephen Walczak, 30, died Friday in a hospital of a bullet wound received when he and several companions fled in a stolen automobile after an attack upon Patrolman Siemens in a downtown street early today.

Patrolman Stenens, who fired the shot that killed Walczak, said Walczak and two other men knocked him to the street and beat him when he attempted to arrest them for loitering in front of a cafe.

MRS. RALPH BEATTY BURIED IN ARIZONA

SIMPLE SERVICE FOR FORMER WASHINGTON C. H. WOMAN

Following simple services Friday afternoon at her home in Tucson, Ariz., all that was mortal was laid to rest in the land where Mrs. Ralph Beatty had gone in search of health three years ago.

Her death came rather unexpectedly to her many friends here last Wednesday following 15 years of invalidism.

Her husband wired Mrs. Beatty's brother, Robert McFadden, in Orrville, of the decision for the funeral and interment at the adopted home only a short time previously and urged that her father, Dr. L. M. McFadden and sister, Miss Anna Lee McFadden, now both visiting in Orrville, not attempt to make the long trip now, according to a message from McFadden to other relatives here.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Beatty had been life-long residents of Fayette county. Two daughters, Nancy and Jane, are with the widowed father.

The editorship of newspapers was forbidden to parliament deputies, and it was declared Jewish ritual slaughter was forbidden.

Coughlin's Outburst

That gathering at Cleveland in which was included, the Share the Wealth group, a hangover from the Huey Long regime and now headed by Gerald Smith of Louisiana, the Townsend Old Age Pension group plus Father Charles E. Coughlin, allegedly representing rather than accompanied by any considerable portion of his Social Justice group, was remarkable even for American politics.

From the proceedings of the gatherings and the speeches, or rather the violent denunciations of all opponents made by leaders, the combination of groups might well be described, by one of the late "Teddy" Roosevelt's expressions, as being made up of the "Lunatic Fringe."

The speech of Coughlin in which he called President Roosevelt a "betrayer" a "liar" and a "double crosser" has undoubtedly alienated a great number of those who have followed him in his "Social Justice" campaign. It should occasion no surprise if Lemke, the Union party's candidate for president, would withdraw and refuse to stand as the candidate of a party, the boss of which (and that's what Coughlin is) descended to the use of such disgraceful language.

Millions of American citizens disagree with the policies of President Roosevelt. They have a right to disagree with him and his administration. That's the kind of a country this is. They have a right to criticize but they do not approve of the use of such language as Coughlin use at Cleveland.

Respect for the high office of president and the individual who occupies it, is demanded by the people at all times.

Coughlin's outburst is proof of the bitterness of the man and justifies a suspicion that he is not as sincere and as "holy" as he would have people believe.

Such an outrageous attack cannot be justified by any high motive.

While there might have been a time, during the wrangling and chaos at Cleveland when the Townsendites and the Long adherents would have welcomed the support of Coughlin, we doubt if either group now desires to be identified with him.

There have been, we regret to say, many occurrences in American politics, of which the people are ashamed, but never, in our opinion, has there been one more disgraceful than the Coughlin outburst.

France's Woes

France is now in, perhaps, the most chaotic state of any of the trouble torn European nations.

Governments are formed and governments fall every few weeks in France. Riotings and disorders increase in number and violence, defying all efforts of civil and military authorities to prevent them. The nation's currency—still on the gold standard—is shaky on foreign exchanges and inadequate to meet home needs. About everything that could be wrong is wrong in France. Her relations with neighbor nations are not friendly. Menaced at home and abroad France is in a wretched condition.

And the reason for it all rests with France alone. But for the action of France in, immediately it was signed, beginning to violate the terms of the Versailles treaty, neither France nor the other nations of Europe would be in the condition they are today.

With France arming in defiance of treaty agreements, it has been impossible to hold Germany, Italy and Turkey to the agreement not to arm.

France, too, was the leader in defaulting in the payment of war debts to the United States. She violated her agreement to pay this nation in order to have the money with which to violate her treaty agreements with her neighbor nations and rearm on a scale so tremendous as to make her a menace to the peace of Europe and make of her neighbor nations, if they obeyed their treaty obligations, mere vassals of a military France.

As a consequence, France is now reaping the harvest of her misdeeds, bringing misery to herself and menacing the peace of Europe and the world.

WASHINGTON C. H. OHIO

Charles P. Stewart Says:

WHAT CAN SPY GAIN THAT ISN'T KNOWN?

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington, July 18—The United States has been reasonably free in the past from such spy scares as most European countries, plus Japan, suffer from periodically.

The old world powers all have the ever-present complex that some potential enemy is snooping on their military secrets.

The Yankee sense of humor generally has sufficed heretofore (except during the hysteria of actual wartime) to keep Americans from working themselves into a ferment over the supposed activities of foreign secret agents, delving into the mysteries of our plans for national defense and offense.

Every experienced person knows that practically there are no such mysteries.

INFORMATION FREE

Whatever it is worth a secret agent's while to find out, he can find out from books and reports, officially in print and available to anyone who cares to pay for them.

Being in small demand, they are expensive, but by no means so expensive as the maintenance of an espionage service.

As to the navy, for example, "Jane's Fighting Ships" is a volume which should furnish any expert with all the information he possibly could desire concerning the various maritime powers' potentialities of ocean warfare.

It contains pictures and plans, classes and draughts, complements and calibers, gun elevators and velocities—everything pertinent to the calculation, by a competent authority, of the strength of the respective navies. Anyone who wants it can get it.

SUCKERS?

The government that is willing to pay fancy prices to a spy for such enlightenment is a sucker government.

It is highly desirable for the government which is being spied on to let the spy, scoop in his ill-gotten gains and spend them in increasing his own country's purchasing power. He may be unpatriotic, as an individual, but he is doing no harm strategically, and he is draining the enemy of its financial resources.

The navy, however, is out to get the scalps of the spies—has convicted one, arrested another, and is on the trail of several others.

One wonders?
Is the navy really worried? Or is it simply trying to create naval enthusiasm, by stirring up an imaginary Japanese spy scare?

It is hard to think that it is a genuine scare; there is nothing to be scared about.

For that matter, every military or naval attaché of a foreign embassy Washington is, in his way, a spy. But he is an official spy; he does not count.

SPIES ON ITSELF

The administration probably has caught the spy contagion from doing so much spying of its own.

It has:

The treasury secret service; the postoffice inspection service; the justice department's bureau of investigation; the army and navy department's secret services, respectively; the interior department's secret service; the PWA's secret service, under and in conflict with the interior department, to which it nominally is subject. The labor department also, is engaged in exiling many an alien, and that requires spying.

TRAIL BLAZERS

Who Made Ohio History

By R. C. HALL

The Rev. James B. Finley may be called a trailblazer of Methodism in Ohio. He was born in Pennsylvania where his father was a Presbyterian minister. He later migrated with his family to Kentucky where he established a sort of high school, and later to Ohio, where the Finley family helped to establish the city of Chillicothe.

According to his own admission, James was a bad youth, but while attending a great revival in Kentucky, he repented, professed conversion, and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. He entered the ministry as a "Circuit Rider" and preached along the frontier of New York and Pennsylvania and deep into the Ohio wilderness. Through his influence a mission for the Indians was established at Upper Sandusky. He preached the gospel, spread Methodism and established churches, or caused them to be established, in a large part of Ohio. He served for a time as Chaplain of the Ohio Penitentiary.

EARL BROWDER CALLS FOR UNITED FRONT

Charlottesville, Va. (AP)—Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president, called Friday for a united people's front against reaction, and designated the "growing movement" for a Farmer-Labor party as "the specific American form" of such a union.

Poetry For Today

ALL SAINTS'
In a church which is furnished with mullion and gable,
With altar and reredos, with gargoyles an groin,
The penitents' dresses are seaskin
and sable,
The odor of sanctity's cau-de-cologne.

But only could Lucifer, flying from Hades,
Gaze down on this crowd with its panniers and paints.
He would say, as he looked at the lords and the ladies,
"Oh, where are All Sinners' if this is, All Saints'?"

WASHINGTON Off the Record

By SIGRID ARNE

Forty years ago Ruth Bryan Owen had a small adventure which may have had its part in the events leading to her marriage this month to a Dane.

She had pulled on a clean ginghham, braided her hair, and gone campaigning with her famous father, William Jennings Bryan.
They arrived at Dannebrog, Nebraska.

"Look how clean it is, and look at the gardens!" she exclaimed. "Why is this town so pretty?"

"Well, it was settled by Danish people, and they are like that,"
said her father. Whereupon there grew in the child's mind a determination to see Denmark.

She became American minister to that country and is now married to a member of the Danish Royal Guard.

In Washington Meridian park
there is a sun-dial that draws hundreds of curious. It is a bronze-sphere made to resemble the ancient astronomical machines first used in China.

One evening an obviously enamoured couple glanced at the dial.
It was nine o'clock. By coincidence, a nearby street-light had caused the dial to register the exact time.

"Isn't science wonderful?" murmured the young woman. "Now sun-dials work at night, too."

The rush of celebrities in and out of Washington can ruffle the tempers of some of the country's most famous chefs.

The latest difficulty occurred when a New York banker hurried into a hotel dining room and irrita-bly announced he had just 12 minutes to make a train. That permitted him three minutes for breakfast.
He ordered orange juice, coffee,
and a four-minute egg.

Senator Bennett Clark, of Missouri, has a nine-year-old son who likes his facts kept straight.

He had been riding around the home neighborhood on a borrowed pony when a purring, elderly gentleman stopped him to gush over the little pony.

"Little, my eye," said young Clark. "She's old enough to be my mother."

High Spots In Ohio History

From the Galbraith collection of Ohio Histories. Written for the Associated Press.

Prior to the War of 1812, Marion county was still a reservation for the Indians. Although its fine game animals were attractive to the white man, they were left for the most part to the Indians. The beehives were more numerous in the territory. Bee trees were numerous, and white men, too lazy to hunt, made a specialty of "luring" bee trees and taking the honey.

But few counties in the state which saw none of the hostilities of the War of 1812 were left with more marks of that war upon them than Marion. Two military roads for use by the army trains were cut through the county. Some of the older residents can point out traces of these roads.

She explained, "This doll will be my traveling companion this summer. She needs no railroad tickets.
She doesn't eat. She won't want to go places that don't interest me, and she won't talk when I want to read."

The presence of the foreign diplomatic corps in Washington was a help to a mischievous and quick-witted little woman who had lived here for 80 years.

She was breaking a traffic regulation when a policeman yelled, "Hey, you!"

"How do you do, officer," she said in slow and broken English. "I have done something wrong? Please explain just as if I were an American woman."

Representative Marion A. Zion-check, of Washington, after his turbulent encounters with police and his apartment house manager, left a neighborly spirit behind him,
when he departed for the West Coast.

Until his escapades kept them awake nights, dwellers in the house stared coldly at each other in true apartment house manner. Now several cross-the-corridor dinner parties are being given.

There is in Washington a home
which might easily be bitterly divided against itself. It houses Mr.
and Mrs. Ephraim Lillard who work in the copyright division of the Library of Congress.

Lillard says he is related to President Roosevelt through ancestors who lived in Colonial Boston.

Mrs. Lillard says she is related to the Republican candidate
through her great-grandmother, Elizabeth Landon, of Ohio.

RARE INDEED.

Washington—Secretary Ickes defined a two-dollar word—"illaquetion"—which he used in a speech.

"Ah! you got no education?" he playfully demanded in a memo to those who questioned his usage.

"I would swear by the bones of Noah Webster that if there is any such word it means ensnarement or entrapment. A dang good word, I call it, especially if it stumped all you near Phi Beta Kappas."

Noah Webster's big dictionary proves Secretary Ickes is right, though it says the word is "rare."

TOOK HIS PICK.

Greenville, S. C.—A Negro youth here picked a pick as a disguise.

Railway Policeman M. A. Brown, after a chase, had to pick him out of a road gang.

In court, the negro told the judge he thought Brown wouldn't recognize him as a hobo if he were working with a pick.

The judge sentenced him to 22 days.

WHAT THE SMART YOUNG MAN WEARS

EVEN EVENING CLOTHES NOW COOL AND COMFORTABLE

Left, summer tuxedo, worn with black pleated trousers; center, plaid sports suit; right, white shetland wool suit.

By LISBETH

THE WORLD always has had its Beau Brummels, and in that dandy's day men's clothes had a great deal more esthetic appeal than has been the case in modern times. And before his time, in the days of the Charleses of England and the Louis' of France, men were as elaborately gotten up in long curls, velvet and satin knee breeches, lace and ribbon as any woman. "Them were the days" of the snappy dressers.

But for some reason or other men are taking a new lease of life, and bid fair to rival their fair sisters in glorified raiment.

Even their evening clothes are becoming attractive and much more comfortable, especially for warm weather formal affairs, and what next to expect from them we do not know. Tailors are becoming more and more original and daring, and more is said about men's styles, than has been the case since this writer has been about.

Here we show three smart suits that the well dressed young man may wear. Center, is a broken Glen plaid sports suit, which has a single-breasted coat with patch pockets. This suit comes with an extra pair of trousers.

Left, is the summer tuxedo with double-breasted coat with shawl collar, worn with black tropical worsted pleated trousers. Look at it closely and notice the accessories. By the look of them may ye tell your best friend's escort from the waiters. Bow tie, handkerchief and flower are maroon.

Right, is a new white shetland wool suit for summer wear. The coat is double-breasted and semi-draped, and the trousers are plain. Handkerchief and tie are black, shoes and hat white, the latter banded with black.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thornton, son, DeWitt, and Mr. Don Easter, left Saturday night on a motoring trip to Michigan, and will spend the next two weeks camping near Mesick, Mich., on the Manistee river.

Miss Jane Ramsey came from Columbus, accompanied by a guest, Miss Mildred Fulton, of Marietta O., Saturday, to visit Miss Ramsey's mother, Mrs. Richard Ramsey, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hackett returned Friday evening from their wedding trip and are now located in the Evans furnished apartments in East street. The itinerary of their trip covered Cleveland, Loraine, Akron and Massillon.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus D. Short and son, Rufus, of Springfield, visited Friday with Mrs. Short's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Neil B. Jones.

Mr. Clark Kershner and mother, Mrs. Albert Schausler, who have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gibson for the past week, leave Sunday for their home in Anderson, Ind.

Mr. Ross D. Glaze, of Toledo, is spending the week end at his home in Jeffersonville.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Fisher and son, Douglas, motored down from Cleveland, Saturday, bringing Mrs. Fisher's nephew, Danny, home from a visit of several weeks. Mrs. Fisher and son will remain for a week's visit.

Miss Jeanette Croker and Miss Mary K. Dempsey, accompanied by Mr. Romain Croker, will spend next week at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland and will also motor in New York state.

Jack Seasongood leaves Monday for an extended vacation trip to Wisconsin and will visit in Winona, Minnesota, before his return home.

Mrs. Chester Jones, daughters, Mrs. Ancil Creamer and Miss Helen, of near Octa, were shopping visitors in this city Saturday.

STREAM POLLUTION ATTACK LAUNCHED

OHIO GOVERNOR ASKED TO SEEK INTER-STATE ACTION

Cincinnati, O., July 18.—(AP)—A request went to Gov. Martin L. Davey today from the Chamber of Commerce stream pollution committee asking that he notify governors of Ohio valley states of Ohio's readiness to negotiate anti-pollution treaties under terms of a recent congressional act.
The committee, seeking to eliminate impurities in the Ohio and its tributaries, made the request after hearing David C. Warner, executive secretary of the State Water Conservation Board, describe dangers of contamination of the underground water "table" from which much drinking water is drawn.

Cut-Rate Gasoline Pumps Blocked By Auto Pickets

INDEPENDENTS SEEKING TO FORCE PRICE UP

Akron, O., July 18.—(AP)—"Auto-bike picketing" today marked a gasoline station dispute in which independent operators said they desired to force an increase in prices at Standard Oil Company stations.
Thomas J. Marshall, president of the independent gasoline dealers of Summit county, who yesterday announced an increase of one-half cent a gallon, said "picketing" would be resumed at peak traffic periods today. He said about 60 automobiles barred other cars from access to pumps at seven stations here yesterday.

Death Certificate Asked By Missing Man's Wife

BANK, HOWEVER, IS STILL HUNTING FOR HIM

Warren, O., July 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Carter C. McConnell today awaited court action on her petition to declare legally dead her husband, who disappeared six years ago. Shortages of $50,000 were found in McConnell's accounts, and warrants are now out for him on behalf of the McKinley Savings and Loan Company and the Masonic Temple Company.

TOWNSEND DEMANDS HIS "SCALP"

Gomer Smith denouncing attacks on President Roosevelt

The Townsend organization split into two militant factions as Dr. Francis E. Townsend and the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith pushed the ouster of Gomer Smith, Oklahoma Democrat and a national vice president of OARP, Smith, in a vehement speech, attacked the Rev. Smith and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin for their attacks in the Cleveland Townsend convention on President Roosevelt. Many Democrats within the organization joined in support of Smith.

with poverty in the United States. He criticized the Republican and Democratic platforms for their stand on social legislation.
"I have the right to appeal to you to help us enact legislation which the American people believe is necessary for their well-being," Thomas said. "You and I know we live in a country where poverty is inexcusable."
"We are promising you no distant feast in Utopia," shouted Thomas. "There is a lot we can do for men and women now. We can promise that if you will organize you can win abundance. You can carry out the dreams of the patriots. But it is a job to be done. We don't think that can be done by the proposal so dear to your hearts."

When Thomas announced he could not endorse the Townsend plan he was greeted with a chorus of boos.
Other developments were:
A suit filed in Common Pleas court late yesterday by the Rev. Alfred J. Wright of Cleveland, a deposed national director, asking removal of Dr. Townsend and other officers, and an accounting of $1,000,000 in Townsend club's money which the suit charged has been "dissipated."
A statement by Robert E. Clements, who recently resigned as Townsend secretary and treasurer, that the plan was being "taken over by political opportunists." Clements' statement was contained in an interview.
A telegram to the convention from Byron Defenbach of Boise, Townsend-endorsed opponent of Senator William E. Borah in the Idaho Republican primary, to "drop this third party presidential controversy" because "our people have been taught from the beginning of the movement that the election of Townsend men—senate and congress—was to be the sole objective in this campaign."
Dr. Townsend had announced he personally favored the presidential aspirations of Lemke, and later said he would participate in a tour with Lemke, Father Coughlin and Gerald Smith. Three days before, however, the pension plan originated or said he could name "at least a dozen" men he would prefer to Lemke as president.

A hectic night of marching up and down halls preceded the at least temporary peace over Gomer Smith's status. Dr. Townsend first walked to the board meeting with Gerald Smith. When he discovered Gomer was present he turned around and walked out—back to his hotel room.
The board continued its meeting and later recessed while a committee chairman and Gilmour Young, national secretary, called on the doctor. He returned to the meeting, and later retired.

The convention adopted today a resolution declaring that the old age pension organization "shall not at any time during this campaign, directly or indirectly, endorse any presidential or vice presidential candidate."
This was the answer of the Townsend convention to the oft-asked question of which way the "Townsend family" would throw its vote in November. There were some delegates who said they wanted to endorse specific presidential candidates.
A $200 monthly pension for the aged was uppermost in the hearts and minds of the delegates. Political ramifications of the convention for the most part failed to stir their interest.
The Francis E. Townsend, the idolized leader of the rank and file delegates, has announced he would not vote for either President Roosevelt or Governor Landon. He told newsmen he would not attempt to "coerce" his followers but that he personally would support, work for and "help elect" Representative Lemke of North Dakota, Union party presidential candidate.

A few minutes later the convention demonstrated again its aversion to becoming involved in politics as it sent back to the committee a resolution that delegates "recommend a common cause alignment with any groups which will include in their program an unqualified endorsement of Townsend principles and this reciprocity of action shall be directed toward nominating and electing Townsend plan endorsed candidates for president."

Any prospect, leaders said, of a new political party incorporating the Townsend organization with similar social groups was put to rest when the convention sent the "common cause alignment" resolution back to committee.

The Ohio delegation, some 3,000 strong, last night met in caucus and passed a resolution against participation in any third party movement. They also adopted a resolution expressing confidence in Dr. Townsend and the national officers.

Just before the session opened Dr. Francis E. Townsend, leader of the movement, told newsmen that he would press his demand for the removal of Gomer Smith. Townsend vice president, after the convention was over.

DUKE AND DUCHESS EXPECT SECOND BABY

ALL SOCIAL ENGAGEMENTS CANCELLED, 'TIS SAID

London, July 18.—(AP)—The Duchess of Kent is expecting the birth of a second child, a usually reliable source said today.

Toward the end of the summer the duchess is expected to cancel all social engagements.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent have one son, Prince Edward, born Oct. 9, 1935.
The Duke is the youngest brother of King Edward VIII, and the Duchess is the former Princess Marina of Greece. They were married Nov. 29, 1934.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

By VICTOR EUBANK

New York, July 18.—(AP)—Showers in the corn belt, together with continued favorable industrial news, helped to keep the stock market on a fairly even keel today, but recovery vigor was lacking except in specialties.

A number of issues, at their best, were at new highs for the past 5 years. The close was steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.
At Chicago corn dropped the day's limit of 4 cents a bushel at the opening. Other grains were soft. Cotton was lower. Bonds exhibited no definite trend. Foreign currencies were quiet.

Shares about unchanged to up around 2 points included Spiegel-May-Stern, Sutherland Paper, Philip Morris, Westinghouse, General Electric, Anaconda, Kennecott, Magma Copper, Du Pont, North American, Consolidated Edison, International Paper preferred, Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware and Hudson, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Timken-Detroit, California Packing, Fajardo Sugar, Phillips Petroleum, Goodyear and Standard Oil of New Jersey.
Norfolk and Western was down about 4 points on a single transfer. General Motors and Chrysler pushed up to a while, but backed away with the rest under realizing. Sears Roebuck yielded a point.

at N. C. State College at Raleigh, who found her body about seven hours after she was slain; and another uncle, C. B. Clevenger, also a member of the college's faculty.
The body of the girl was prepared for burial and will leave tonight for piqua, O. Her parents are natives of Ohio, the father coming from Shelby.

The girl was born in Washington, D. C.
Her father will accompany the body to Ohio. Her mother remained at home for the time being.

There was no specific charge against the bellboy.
Sheriff Brown said that, considering the dim hallway light and the negro's light color and cultured voice, he might easily have fitted the figure described by E. B. Pittman, of Raleigh, a guest in the hotel, as standing just within the girl's room shortly after screams came from her direction in the small hours Thursday.

Several guests occupying rooms on the same floor as Miss Clevenger said they heard a woman's screams about 1 a. m. The crime was not discovered, however, until 8:30 a. m.
Clad in green pajamas, she lay on the floor, her legs crumpled beneath her body as if, police said, she was begging for mercy when the killer fired.

Jones, the bellboy, told the coroner's jury he saw a man dashing hatless into the storm a few minutes after other guests heard a woman's screams and groans above the raging storm.

Casey Jones, a taxi driver, said he saw apparently the same man leaving the building.

George W. Garrison, fingerprint expert at the sheriff's office, said several fingerprints had been found in the third story room, but had not been traced.

The coroner's inquest yesterday did not turn up any new information. The jury returned a verdict only that the girl died "at the hands of person or persons unknown."

Sheriff Lawrence E. Brown called the case "the strangest mystery that my office has ever been called on to investigate," but said "our inquiry has just begun."

Circleville, July 18.—(Spcl)—Miss Helen Clevenger, brutally murdered in an Asheville, N. C. hotel, is known in Kingston, O., where she has visited and where she has many relatives.

Her mother, now residing in New York, was Mrs. Mary Dresbach Clevenger, whose father practiced medicine in Kingston for many years. The family moved from Kingston a number of years ago. Elersa Dresbach, of Hallsville, is a half-sister of Mrs. Clevenger.

Owing to internal disturbances, the Italo-Ethiopian conflict and exchange restrictions, the 1935-1936 tourist season in Egypt was one of the worst on record.

Pound Tigers into Submission While Cleveland Tightens Hold on Second Place

By SID FEDER

While the relative slugging merits of the 1927 Yankees and the current murderers' row remain a choice point for argument, no one can deny that the present pounding outfit comes close to being as great as the previous collection.

In a day that saw headline development on nearly every big league diamond, the 1936 homicide squad equalled an American League home run record and set an assortment of other marks yesterday with a 9-4 conquest of the Tigers, which sent the world's champions down to fourth place in the American League.

In other big league sectors, the New York Giants also did some record equalling; the St. Louis Browns in particular and the baseball world in general learned that "Sunny Jim" Bottomley planned to retire at the end of the present roadtrip; rookie Stu Martin of the Cardinals and veteran Al Simmons of the Tigers were laid up with stomach ailments.

Dizzy Dean, with only 24 hours rest from his last pitching assignment and not yet recovered from a week-old injury, saved the Cardinals from their third straight defeat, and the gold-plated Boston Red Sox moved into third place in the American League.

Red Rolfe, Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey poled out homers in the third inning of the Yanks-Tigers game to equal the league record for homers in one inning, set by the Senators in 1902 but equaled several times since.

The performance brought the Yanks' homer total for the season to over 100, making them the only club in the big leagues to turn that trick 12 times in a row—from 1925 through 1936—and 15 times in its career.

Joe Moore, Mel Ott, Hank Leiber and Ed Mayo of the Giants belted three-baggers in the first inning against the Pirates to deadlock the National League mark for triples in one frame. Defeated the Pirates 6-0, as Carl Hubbell, in top-flight form for the first time in a month, allowed only five hits.

The Browns dropped a 2-1 decision to the Red Sox on Jimmy Foxx's two-run single with the bases loaded in the ninth.

Stu Martin, sensational Cardinal rookie, went to a hospital with acute indigestion and Manager Frankie Frisch went to second base.

The Phillies threatened to make it three straight over the Gas House gang, until "old Diz" Dean stopped them cold for the last three innings and rookie Johnny Mize hit a homer in the eighth to give the Cards a 5-3 win.

The Dodgers gave Van Mungo perfect support, and their right-hand ace let the Reds down with seven hits for a 5-3 Brooklyn victory.

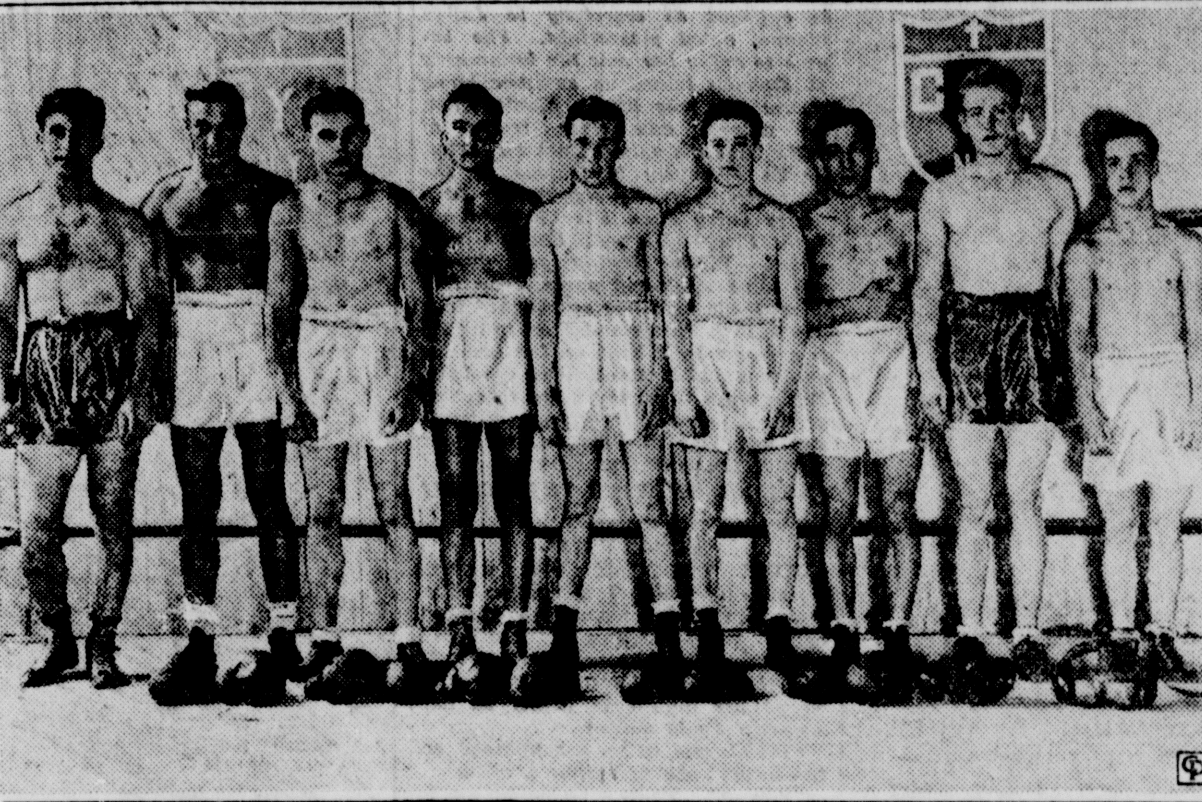

The Bees finally found in Curt Davis a Chicago Cub pitcher they could hit in a 6-1 decision.

The Cleveland Indians chalked up their seventh straight victory, taking over the Athletics 5-1 while the clubbing White Sox swept their series with the Senators, winding up with an 18-hit, 16-5 triumph.

Those Big Boys of the Ring!

They Always Have Been Problem to Fisticana—Now Comes Leon Ketchell, That Ponderous Pole.

By BILL BRAUCHER

The ambling Alp has been reduced to the status of a mouse. Before that the boys razed the Tall Tower of the Argentine. The Tall Pine of the Pottawattomine was cut down at Toledo. Before him there was the Human Freight Car, and he was wrecked by the fists of Bob Fitzsimmons. Now we have Leon Ketchell, the Ponderous Pole. Who wants him, boys? The line forms to the right.

Few of the oversized oafs of the prize ring have amounted to much, and if this fellow Ketchell is like the others he too will go the way of all flesh, even though he has some 280 pounds of it, spread over a gaunt frame seven and a half feet tall. Leon is now in New York, preparing for an American ring career. His managers (Mike Jacobs is one of the interested) say he has knocked out a dozen or so fighters probably most of them persons named Francois. 'Twas ever thus.

Leon Ketchell... no kin of Stanley's.

PLUNK GOES PLAACKE

Khen Kid McCoy was in his middleweight prime, someone imported a large lug from Holland called Herr Plaacke. Kid McCoy met the big fellow in his American debut, spotting him roughly 150 pounds in weight. When the giant stepped from his corner, McCoy advanced, pointed to his opponent's feet and remarked, "Your shot here is loose." Herr Plaacke looked down and as he did the Kid flung his best punch to the Dutchman's chin. After that it was easy. McCoy mangled the dazed giant with ease.

Ed Dunkhorst was another. They called him the Human Freight Car. Bob Fitzsimmons was only a light heavyweight when he was pitted against the monster. Bob feinted the big boy into a lead and then cut loose with a rain of swift short punches. Down came Dunkhorst.

It becomes evident, looking back at him that Primo Carnera was not a fighter but a freak. He did not know how to throw an uppercut in close. But that was about all he had. He cut down Jack Sharkey with hit, but I still do not believe it was a formidable punch. Oddly, most of the big men depend upon a right uppercut. Jess Willard had such a punch. But like Carnera, Willard lacked a fighting heart. He knew none of the fierce joys of fighting that marked destroyers of Dempsey's type.

RISKO AND CAMPOLO

When Vittorio Campolo came to the United States, Solid Man William Muldoon seriously suggested that fellows so big should be classed as super-dreadnaughts, and must not fight "little men." The proposal became a laughing matter when squat Johnny Risko chased Campolo cockeyed in a Florida ring and repeated the performance in New York.

The greatest of the champions have not been oversized. John L. Sullivan didn't weigh 200 pounds (when in fighting shape), and he was 5 feet 10½ inches tall. Of the larger heavies Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson ranked highest. Tom Sharkey was one of the toughest fighters ever seen, and he was only 5 feet 8½ inches tall, weighing around 185. Joe Choynski, a great hitter, was a trifle short of six feet tall and weighed only about 160. One who fought the best of them, and beat most of his opponents, was Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, a 160-pounder, 5 feet 10½ inches tall.

Ketchell will bring people in at the gate, but I don't think the crowd will be there expecting to see the big Pole pulverize somebody. They will want to see him whittled down by a shrimp.

They Halt the Rush of St. Paul by Taking Series Opener

RED BIRDS LOSE

To Kansas City in Night Game While Minneapolis Defeats Toledo

Chicago, July 18—(AP)—Manager Burleigh Grimes and his Louisville Colonels, who have been slumbering in the darkness of the American Association cellar for some time, had shown signs today of resuming their early-season habit of making things tough for teams of higher standing.

The Colonels won the series opener with the current leading St. Paul Saints yesterday, 4 to 3. Wayne La Master stopped the fast-traveling Gabby Street crew with a six-hit pitching job.

Henry Steinbacher, St. Paul outfielder, who hit safely his last three times at bat Wednesday and then had six hits in six trips Thursday, got his first two times up against the Colonels, but failed to hit his next trip. The Association record for consecutive hits is 12, made by Jim Cooney of Milwaukee in 1923.

The defeat snapped the Saint's current winning streak at eight games.

At Minneapolis, the Millers scored a 6 to 5 win over Toledo. In the eighth the Kels scored four runs to knot the count at 4-all. Toledo scored a run in the ninth on four walks but Blondy Ryan's homer tied it up again. Then came Fabian Gaffke's triple which ended the contest.

In a night game, Kansas City went into fourth place and dropped Columbus to fifth by beating the Red Birds 5 to 4. The Blues scored twice in the first and three more times in the fifth, while Columbus got one in the fourth and staged a three-run rally in the ninth.

Indianapolis and Milwaukee were rained out.

PITCHER'S DUEL

And Game Is Exciting and Well Played by Both Outfits

By DON EASTER

Pinch Hitter Ray Forbis' single in the seventh scored Max Lawrence to eke out a 2 to 1 victory for the Levy Clothiers over the Co-Op Drugs Friday evening at Wilson Field in probably the best pitcher's duel yet to be exhibited in a Twilight League play this year.

The Druggists, tougher by far than they were at the beginning of the season since they have taken on a new hurler, pushed across one run in the first heat of the battle on two hits, a walk and an error.

The Clothiers tied up the game in the sixth inning. Grimm, hit by a wild pitch, stole second and third and came in on a sacrifice.

In the last heat, with two down, and Lawrence on second, Forbis, subbing for Wilson in the batters' box, smashed a single out to win the ball game by the smallest possible margin.

The Clothiers' hurler was nipped for four safe blows while the Levy crew garnered five from the Druggists' hurler.

This game was a postponed tilt, the two outfits knotting with a 3 to 3 count in their regular battle Monday evening.

Gamey Qualities in Many Fish

By DILLON GRAHAM

Conservationists report that the trend toward making fishing a purely sporting proposition has led to the discovery of "gamey" qualities in many species of fish that previously were thought less attractive to the angler.

For instance, lake fishermen are finding that they can take not only the game bluegill, but also other species such as crappies and yellow perch, black bass, pilot fishers and smelt, on the fly rod in season. Fly fishing for these species offers a fine substitute to those who are unable to get out on a trout stream.

BASS SEASON

The black bass season has opened in another "anglers' paradise"—the sections of New York bordering on Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence river. Fishermen from all parts of the east, and some from the deep south and midwest, journey annually to the region to battle splendid specimen of that game fish.

The size limit in New York, with the exception of Chautauqua county, is 10 inches or longer with a bag limit of 15 a day a person.

FADE FROM FRIGHT

Many a small boy dangle a hook in his favorite fishing hole has noticed that fish often change their color, or fade, when lifted from the water. W. W. Aitken, biologist of the Iowa Conservation commission, says this may be due to fright, anger or mere involuntary reaction when the fish finds himself in an unnatural medium.

Pickering have been observed, Aitken reports, to change their color patterns when moving from one weed patch to another. Scientists have shown that a small glandular process at the base of the brain in fish controls their colors.

The opening of the black bass and bluegill season in Michigan June 25 makes accessible to licensed fishermen approximately 5,000 inland lakes which have been closed for the protection of those species during spawning periods.

Ticket to Berlin

Noted sprinting star of William Woods college (Missouri), Miss Helen Stephens, is all set for a ticket to Berlin as a member of the women's track and field team. Track experts who saw Miss Stephens' recent pre-Olympic performances say she probably will be the star of the team.
